Are you getting used to juggling classes, family, and work? Don’t be surprised that all this hard work has found you going to bed mentally exhausted…it is normal. Being a full-time student takes some getting used to. Be kind to yourself.

Great News… Last week I had a conversation with the Director of Career and Leadership regarding space for a lounge for adult students. University Center 133 will be our new home for the Non Trad Pad. We are discussing the possibilities of lockers and the comforts of home like a fridge, microwave, and coffee pot. I will keep you posted on the developments. Make yourself at home in the space in the meantime!

Available on Hawk Jobs is the list of employers attending the fair, and the jobs and internships for which they're recruiting. Those attending need not pre-register, and should dress in professional attire. Looking for a campus activity to do with your children? This weekend in the Summers Auditorium in the University Center, SEAL will be showing the movie, Cars 2. Students are more than welcome to bring their families. It costs $1 for students with their UW-W ID and $3 for non-students (family members/children). Showings are Thurs at 10pm, Friday, 7&10pm, and Sat at 7pm.

Chat over Coffee or Tea on Tuesdays

On Tuesday mornings throughout the semester, between 8:00 a.m. - 9:30 a.m., stop by and chat and connect with other adult students over a free cup of coffee or tea. You will smell the coffee brewing in Room 133 of the University Center. Room 133 tucked in the corner near the fireplace. There’s nothing like the smell of coffee to get you motivated to learn.

Let’s Have Lunch

If you are like me and you “brown bag” it, there are several public microwaves on campus for your use. 1. University Center Main Floor, near the ATM machine and entrance to the Graham Street Café. 2. Center of the Arts, Main Floor near the vending machines. 4. Hyland Hall Main Floor Café has a microwave and a toaster. 5. Upham Hall has a microwave and coffee pot in Room 122 and a microwave in 218 for your use.

Grab your lunch and network with other nontraditional students in Room 133 of the UC from 11:00 a.m. – 1:00 p.m. on Wednesdays throughout the semester. Come for a few minutes or as long as your schedule will allow. Everyone is Welcome!

Friday is time for an Adult Student Connections Meeting

Please join the Adult Student Connections organization officer team on Friday, September 30th. We will meet from 1:00p.m – 2:00p.m. in the University Center 133 (Non Trad Pad) to help plan upcoming events that support all nontraditional students. We would love to have you join us!

Wishing you all a great week! My office is located in Roseman 2017 if you have any concerns you would like to discuss. Until next time...
