Priority Registration for Fall 2015 classes is April 7 - April 22, so make sure to schedule an appointment with your advisor before then (right after Spring Break)! Before your advising session make sure to: 1) take care of all your holds on WINS (except the advising hold), 2) bring your AAR & completed degree requirement check sheet, and 3) bring a list of classes you are interested in.

Make sure to check out our new website—> just search for “Liberal Studies” from the UWW homepage. This website can be your first stop for all the Liberal Studies information you need!

Reminder about applying for graduation:
If you plan to graduate in May 2015, you should have already applied! Let us know if you haven’t.
If you plan to graduate in Dec 2015, apply now. The link to do so is on our website.

Crista Lebens is the chair of the Philosophy & Religious Studies department & teaches several course for the Liberal Studies program. This semester she is teaching “Philosophy of Gender & Race” and in the Fall she’ll be teaching “Bioethics” online. She is active with the “Conversations on Race” program on campus. She lives in Madison, and when not contemplating the wisdom of the ages, she likes kayaking and biking.

LIBST 201 will be face-to-face every fall & online every spring. After spring 2015, it will be 2 units.
LIBST 400 will be offered online every semester, but not in the summer.
Starting in Spring 2016, we will have a new course entitled “LIBST 350: Technology & Social Responsibility”. It will meet the Personal & Social Responsibility requirement, and it will count as 300/400 level. This course will be offered every other spring, sometimes online.
