This course has helped me to:

1. Explain the origins of international problems.
2. Critically assess the changing role of the U.S. in the world since the late 19th century.
3. Compare and contrast different political, economic, and socio-cultural systems and assess their effects on global power relations.
4. Draw connections between past events and the contemporary world.
5. Distinguish between different types of historical evidence (primary and secondary sources).
6. Critically read and analyze historical evidence.
7. Develop and support historical interpretations using multiple sources of evidence.
8. Think critically and analytically, integrate and synthesize knowledge, and draw conclusions from complex information.
9. Understand and appreciate the cultures of the USA and other countries, both contemporary and historical, appreciate cultural diversity, and live responsibly in an interdependent world.
10. Acquire a base of knowledge common to educated persons and the capacity to expand that base over their lifetime.
