- Besides printed advertisements in a variety of publications that encourage diversity, institutions should strive to constantly expand their contacts by networking with female and minority professionals, professional organizations and students in graduate programs of related fields. This means that institutions need to be very open when they have a vacancy for the work to spread further. The Committee on Institutional Cooperation \(CIC\) Doctoral Directory is a listing of doctoral degree recipients from CIC member universities who are members of groups underrepresented in higher education. The Directory is designed to increase the visibility of alumni who bring diverse perspectives and experiences to higher education.
