String Academy

2010-2011 School Year & Summer

about the String Academy

The String Academy is UW-Whitewater's program for teaching young students how to play a string instrument, along with essential aspects of musicianship. Private lessons are available for string students between the ages of 6 and 18. Students receive twelve (12) 30-minute private lessons each semester, with six (6) private lessons available during the summer months.

In addition to learning how to play a string instrument, students will discover and learn note-reading skills and rhythms through a variety of games.

It is integral to the student's success that a parent attend each lesson.

Students with prior violin experience should contact Benjamin Whitcomb, the Director and Coordinator (see right for contact information).

Fees

12 Private Lessons Fall: $204

12 Private Lessons Spring: $204

6 Private Lessons (Summer Only): $102

Note: Upon receipt of your child's registration, the coordinator will contact you to set up private lesson times.
