The Academic Advising and Exploration Center (AAEC) guides and supports students as they navigate UW-Whitewater.

MISSION
Our mission is to provide proactive and developmental academic advising that assists students with their transition to college and helps them develop an educational plan consistent with their personal values, interests and abilities.

ACADEMIC ADVISERS
Our advisers represent diverse educational and professional backgrounds that complement the interests, goals and backgrounds of students. The AAEC primarily serves first-year and undeclared students. Each student at UW-Whitewater is assigned an academic adviser. The AAEC works closely with offices across the campus to create an integrated advising experience for students as they grow intellectually, socially and professionally.

THE ADVISING PARTNERSHIP
Advising is most effective when students and advisers work as partners. Students must work continually with their advisers to develop comprehensive academic plans that lead to successful career planning. The AAEC’s advisers meet one-on-one with students by appointment and on a walk-in basis.

WHAT WE DO
Academic advisers work with students to:
- Establish personal, academic and professional goals
- Select challenging and rewarding courses
- Explore majors/minors or other areas of professional study
- Interpret and learn university academic requirements, policies and procedures
- Connect with appropriate resources on campus
