

FAWN BECK

Fawn Beck is a University Services Associate, working in the Office for University Advancement. She is located in Hyer Hall and has been employed with UW-Whitewater for six years. What she likes most about her job is that it keeps her busy and she enjoys working with her supervisor and the rest of the staff in that office. She appreciates the nearness of UWW to her home and is happy to be working on a campus this size. Fawn has a special link with UW-Whitewater – her maternal grandfather graduated from here and founded the Educators' Credit Union.

Fawn is married and has two daughters – Priscilla and Candace. Her husband, David, works for the DNR. She has a six-month-old granddaughter, Gabrielle, who holds a special place in her heart. Among her interests are hobby farming (raising sheep and chickens), counted cross-stitch, hunting, fishing, and hiking. She is active in her church and also likes to travel. Recently, she was able to venture into Alaska on a cruise and she said it was definitely a memorable trip. Special interests for Fawn are her four dogs and, of course, spending quality time with her granddaughter.

When asked for her thoughts regarding the recent changes occurring on campus, she says it's hard to see the old buildings being torn down, but feels that the updates to classrooms and the extra space is certainly needed and will be beneficial to the students.
