

A LEARN Center Workshop

Going Global In The Classroom: Technologies and Assignments That Make It Happen

February 21, 2012 | 12:30-1:30 PM | UC 275 A

About the Workshop:

Globalization has fueled the need for collaboration over substantial geographic distances. This is true not only in the work world but also in our classrooms. This session focuses on how you can internationalize your courses through cross border lectures, assignments and student projects. Learn about the technologies available at UW-W to facilitate cross border collaboration. Discover the best practices within academia for linking students with overseas peers. Brainstorm with peers to identify how to go global in your classroom.
