EXPLORATION TIP OF THE MONTH

The first semester of a new school year is the perfect time to get involved in clubs or student organizations on campus.

These student organizations will allow you to have fun and meet others with similar interests to you! Clubs and organizations range from sports, sorority/fraternities, as well as major organizations. Joining a club or student organization gives you the opportunity to learn more about that area of interest as well as an opportunity to meet others on the UW-W campus.

Interested in learning what types of clubs or student organizations we have on campus? Attend the Involvement fair on Wednesday, Sept. 11th from 10 am - 2 pm located in the UC North Mall.

Don't know? Ask your Advisor!

If you ever have questions or concerns please ask your academic advisor! It is true that your academic advisor assists you in the selection of your classes. However, they can do so much more than just that!

Your advisors are here to provide you support as you move through your first year of your college experience. If you have questions pertaining to life on campus they are here to help! If they do not know the answer to your question, they will find someone who does. Never be afraid to ask your advisor for help when you need it.

"Do not be afraid to ask for help. Nobody gets through college on their own."

-Michelle Obama

As soon as friends and family hear that you are attending college the first question will be "what is your major?" If you do not have a major that is ok! In fact coming into college not knowing what your major is allows you the opportunity to do some exploring of your own! On average college students change their major 1-3 times during their college experience (National Center for Education Statistics). As you begin to take classes and learn what you like versus what you do not like, you will be able to determine your major and ultimately what you want to do as far as a career upon graduation! So don't stress if you do not have a major picked out day 1 of your freshman year of college. You have time, take a breath and enjoy your first year!
