Whitewater

BELONG HERE

"Nothing beats the joy when a student lets you know they have that new job, or they have been accepted into graduate school. Today, a student contacted me because she was awarded funding to do a blood spatter analysis for her undergraduate research project. She was happy to be able to do something that she always wanted to do. And I think it will help her get into graduate school. That's the best."

—Pete Killoran, lecturer

You belong in the Warhawk family

The Warhawk family isn't just an expression — it's how we live. Our faculty and staff work hard to ensure all Warhawks have access to the success they want in the college experience.

With award-winning academic programs, a community location and a passionate commitment to education, UW-Whitewater is home to about 12,000 students every year. For more than 150 years, UW-Whitewater has been welcoming students to the Warhawk family, setting them up for success and then challenging them to go places — through undergraduate research, a semester abroad, a life-changing internship or leadership in a student organization that is making a difference in the world — they may never have thought they could go.

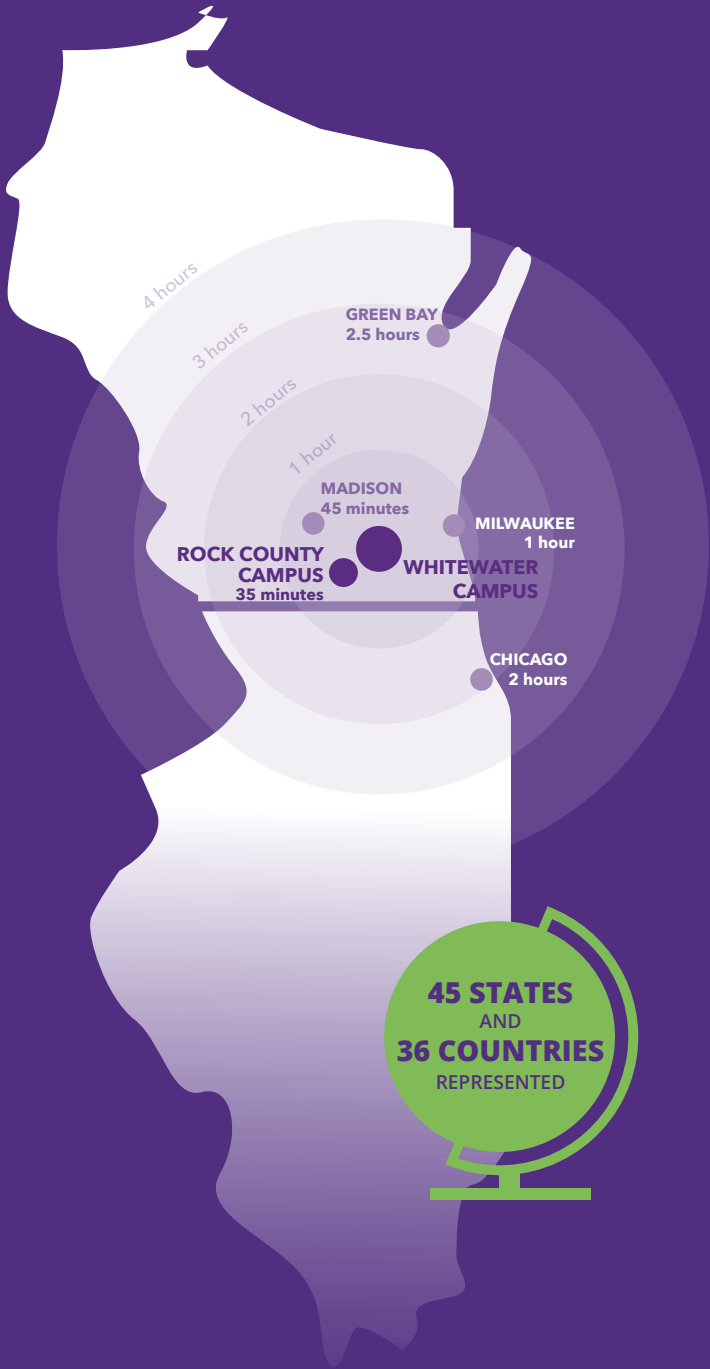

Find out the many ways you belong — and can thrive — as a Warhawk, and what having faculty and staff dedicated to your learning and your success, like criminology instructor Pete Killoran, can do for you.

A broad array of academic programs

UW-Whitewater leads the way in preparing students with the outstanding skills that make them strong candidates for 21st-century careers and community leadership. We are world-renowned for our education, music and business programs, but boast just as proudly of programs as diverse and respected as chemistry, political science, biology, communication, theatre, criminology and media arts and game development. New majors in 2020-21 include legal studies, business analytics and human performance.

Warhawks benefit from our fierce focus on student success, from small class sizes and free tutoring to professors who choose UW-Whitewater because it means they get to work directly with students in the classroom, in the laboratory — and beyond. Our transformative programs are designed to provide you with all the opportunities, challenges and skills you desire.

“I teach because of the satisfaction I feel after teaching my courses, knowing I am pouring into someone’s future. During my challenging days, I reread the kind emails, Facebook posts, etc. to remind myself of the great work I am providing. Being an educator is rooted within me and I know it shows to my students and the community.”

Determined to see our students succeed

Our students have peer mentors, residence hall assistants, academic advisors, and many others in their corner.

Our award-winning programs for students from diverse backgrounds champion engagement, educational achievement and leadership. And the services of our state-of-the-art tutoring center are available to all students — from those just starting in a subject to those who really want to turbocharge their learning — at no cost. Pro tip: tutoring is a paid and highly coveted job opportunity on campus. Savvy students know that teaching others is one of the best way to master knowledge.

"It shows that there's a great program and great students here at Whitewater. It's a program that's growing." — Assistant Professor Nick Hwang

Beyond campus

Warhawks have the opportunity to do amazing things — from creating and launching their own businesses using resources in the Innovation Center and the Community Engagement Center, to participating in study abroad opportunities, competing in international competitions and presenting at national conferences.

Faculty who are passionate about student success makes for more than just great classroom experiences — it means help finding internships. The city boosts a vibrant business park with the Whitewater University Innovation Center, and the university's location within striking distance of Madison, Milwaukee and Chicago means Warhawks have many hands-on opportunities close by.

Casey Russell, an economics major from Belleville who interned at Wells Fargo in San Francisco, said, "I chose UW-Whitewater for its value, close-knit culture, and strong economics program. When I did my internship, I managed a team and worked alongside fellow interns from Ivy League schools. That gave me the confidence that UW-Whitewater delivers a high-quality education at a superior value."

Anna Land, taping the box, is an assistant professor of supply chain management who works to provide hands-on opportunities for her students and to build relationships between them and local businesses such as Burns Industrial, a Whitewater-based supply company that services nearly 2,000 farm stores across 40 states and parts of Canada.

"Last year, I mentored a student in the Undergraduate Research Program. We were able to publish a peer-reviewed journal article on our results and secured a stipend to present at an international conference in Sweden."
 — Anna Land, assistant professor

Warhawks have recently interned at companies and organizations as prestigious as NASA, Tesla, the American Civil Liberties Union, the U.S. Park Service, Bloomberg and Harley Davidson.

Warhawk life

Typically, more than 95% of our new students live in university housing and enjoy a vibrant campus in a welcoming and accessible community. From grabbing a cup of Starbucks or an Einstein Bros. bagel to joining a club, there are so many ways to make your campus experience your own.

Our campus contains a multitude of ways to get involved — from a beach volleyball court and a disc golf course to a vegetable garden, where thousands of pounds of vegetables are grown and donated to a community food pantry each year. We have a 1,400-seat auditorium that presents national and international shows and several smaller stages for student dance and theatre productions.

You'll find the University Center is the hub of things, hosting hundreds of free or low-cost events like movies, live music, trivia, comedians, game nights, craft nights and more. The UC is also where you'll find the bowling alley, billiards, gaming stations, an art gallery, and cozy fireplaces to curl up next to. It's also where many of those hundreds of student orgs have a home. Find out more at www.edu/uc.

Safe, welcoming community

The walkable city of Whitewater provides students with an abundance of recreation opportunities, from restaurants and cinemas to biking and nature trails and the weekly Whitewater City Market. And we're just 10 miles from the southern unit of the Kettle Moraine State Forest, renowned for its mountain biking and cross country ski trails, and the camping, swimming and golf opportunities in the Whitewater Lake region.

We are also close to major cities like Milwaukee, Madison and Chicago — as handy for world-class entertainment and shopping as it is for an exceptional number of internship and research opportunities. Daily buses can take you to Janesville, Milwaukee and points beyond, including major airports.

A Wisconsin Mainstreet Community since 2006, Whitewater invests heavily in its downtown, where the post office, numerous restaurants, a craft brewery, a diner, hair salons and shops selling everything from bikes and sporting gear to vintage clothing are located.

Five colleges,
endless possibilities

You'll find more than 170 majors and minors — and many areas of emphasis — to choose from at UW-Whitewater.

Thinking about graduate school? We have options for you. From our popular MBA, to our master's degree programs in counseling, special education or social work, we'll get you where you want to be — academically and professionally. And we offer a growing number of fully online master's programs as well, including business analytics, cybersecurity, communication, instructional design and learning technology. And U.S. News and World Report calls our online MBA the best in Wisconsin!

The best value in the UW System

We know you want to spend your education dollars wisely. Fortunately, we're one of the best values in the country — and the best value in the UW System. Many students are surprised to find that our textbook rental program — included in tuition and fees — is by far the most comprehensive in the state, covering 95% of course materials. For the average freshman, that means a savings of almost $2,000!

When you are comparing universities, remember to factor in all of the costs — tutoring, laundry and admission to regular-season sporting events are at no extra cost at UW-Whitewater, too.
