ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to thank you all for attending my senior recital. I would not have made it here without your constant love and support. These past four and a half years have truly been a rollercoaster. I have had so many points where I felt like giving up. However, my passion for wanting to teach music and the support I have received have kept me going. I am so glad to have been able to share some music with you! I hope you enjoyed the result of my hard work and passion.

There are some people that I would like to thank. A big thank you to my parents, sister, and grandma for being supportive for so many years. Your love, support, and reassurance that I can accomplish great things in the realm of music are what have kept me going through my college career. When I felt defeated, I could always count on them to shed some light back on the positives of my life. They have never once doubted me and made sure that I knew they believed in me. I would also like to give a huge thank you to Professor Ellenwood for being an amazing private lesson instructor. He has pushed me past what I thought were my limits because he was able to see the ability to be an amazing clarinetist that was hidden within me. Professor Ellenwood has taught me so many techniques on how to be a better clarinetist. He has also taught me so many life lessons and has shown me how to see life through many different lenses. This has helped me better myself and better my future. I would also like to thank Professor Sharri VanAlstine for being an amazing research mentor. She has helped me become a thorough researcher and has given me so many opportunities within my research. With my position on the WMEA Collegiate Steering Committee and the support from Professor Sharri VanAlstine, I was able to publish my first research article in the Wisconsin Music Journal. I was able to publish my first article about my research in the Wisconsin Music Journal. This has been a huge step and success along my path to my music education and special education research. Finally, I want to thank all my friends from my time in college for supporting me. The wide range of support from my friends has been a blessing and has helped me realize that so many people do believe in me.

These past years being a part of the music department at UW-Whitewater has given me so many amazing opportunities backed up by continuous support. I am so grateful to have had such an amazing college experience through this music department. I will never forget what it felt like to play on the stage of Carnegie Hall. I will also never forget the amazing navigating the department did to allow ensembles to play during the pandemic. This is my second in-person performance since the pandemic. I am so thankful to have been able to play for all of you live. This will also be another experience that I will never forget.
