UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-WHITEWATER

MAY 16, 2026

More than 155 years ago, on April 21, 1868, the state's second normal school opened its doors to the first class of 48 students and nine faculty members.

A progressive spirit guided the development of the institution as it evolved from a normal school, which trained teachers for one-room schools, to Whitewater State Teachers College (1927), Wisconsin State College-Whitewater (1951), Wisconsin State University-Whitewater (1964) and as a member of the 13 four-year institutions in the University of Wisconsin System (1971), now the Universities of Wisconsin.

Today, UW-Whitewater is a leading comprehensive university serving more than 12,000 full- and part-time students with 61 undergraduate majors, 21 master's degree programs, one doctoral degree and one education specialist degree in the colleges of Arts and Communication, Business and Economics, Education and Professional Studies, Integrated Studies, and Letters and Sciences. The university awards more than 2,500 degrees every year.

Throughout its history, UW-Whitewater has produced graduates who have actively contributed to the growth of the state and nation. Student learning is the paramount focus of the university's programs and services.

The university takes pride in its regional leadership, national presence and global vision. Many of its academic programs are among the best in the country.

JOE BALISTRERI

When he first enrolled in the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater, Joseph Balistreri already had significant life experience under his belt — experience that he used to help build bridges to support other students.

The Wisconsin Air National Guard member says his pursuit of a Bachelor of Business Administration in management has been a transformative experience through the organizations and activities he took part in as an undergraduate student.

Balistreri, a 2021 graduate of Lakeside Lutheran High School in Lake Mills, was attracted to UW-Whitewater as he considered higher education for a number of reasons: His grandfather graduated from UW-Whitewater, and his father graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Stout.

After graduating high school, he went straight into the Wisconsin Air National Guard, working as a vehicle maintainer. He earned three designations during military training: Head Airman Leader, Chaplain Assistant and Drill and Ceremony Assistant. During his time there, he earned a designation that has been a part of his overall mission in life — to help people whenever possible. He has been trained to provide confidential, non-clinical support to the military community as a Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Victim Advocate.

On the UW-Whitewater campus, Balistreri’s heart for service has been demonstrated in a number of ways, including his role as an intercessor with the faith-based EVOLVE Whitewater ministry organization. From 2024 to 2025, he provided one-on-one confidential support in a compassionate manner.

“Building bridges is very important to me. Becoming a bridge for others is a big part of my personal philosophy. It’s a privilege to be able to help people work through some of their struggles.”

After his first semester at UW-Whitewater, Balistreri became a resident assistant, a role he has continued up through graduation. The leadership role has been another opportunity for him to offer a helping hand at pivotal moments.

Balistreri was also a member of Whitewater Student Government from 2023-25, holding multiple positions including senator, associate director of student affairs and, ultimately, director of student affairs.

Several years ago, he also helped make his mark on campus in a different way — reviving a club sport — racquetball.

Balistreri might be closing out his time as an undergraduate student, but UW-Whitewater will still remain a part of his life. This fall, he is returning as he pursues an MBA with a planned emphasis in management.

As a dedicated bridge builder, Balistreri has impacted countless lives as a student, but he is quick to point out it has been a reciprocal experience as he reflects on the many people he has crossed paths with who have been sources of inspiration.

“It brings a smile to my face, knowing that people within this university really care about people as individuals.” ❖

PETER GLERUM

As a significant chapter of his life is coming to a close, Peter Glerum is reflective as he thinks back on his career and the foundational milestones that played a pivotal part of his journey.

In May, he is closing out his leadership role as chief investment strategist and partner emeritus with the private equity firm Castlelake, a Minneapolis-based company he joined in 2005.

Prior to joining Castlelake, he held investment-related positions with Deephaven Capital Management, American Express Financial Advisors, Piper Sandler (formerly Piper Jaffray) and Wells Fargo Bank.

Glerum initially thought about school as a transactional experience that helped him get from one milestone to the next.

The Wauwatosa East High School graduate came to campus in the fall of 1986 at a unique time of transition for his family — his parents moved to Seattle shortly before he enrolled at UW-Whitewater.

On campus, Glerum worked as a resident assistant for five semesters. Looking back, he reflects fondly on the connections he made with classmates in that close-knit community. Those strong connections were especially true of his fellow RAs.

“We all came together as a group. We spent a lot of time in each other’s rooms, just chatting about life. I had my eyes opened. I thought I knew everything, being a suburban kid. But I learned a lot about all different walks of life, just by being at Whitewater.”

He also worked as a janitorial assistant all four years on campus. “One of the things I learned is that if I connected with the students in that building, and they knew who I was, they respected the physical property more.”

After earning a BBA in management computer systems in 1990, Glerum worked for Cargill Financial Services Corp. as an investment manager, an experience he describes as a game-changer. He also earned an MBA with honors from the Carlson School at the University of Minnesota in 1995. Over time he developed a greater understanding and appreciation for his time at UW-Whitewater.

For more than 15 years, Glerum has been giving back to UW-Whitewater, re-establishing his roots with the campus community in a number of ways.

He serves as an advisor to the finance program, the university’s most popular major for the last eight years. He also has forged close ties with the board of the UW-Whitewater Foundation, where he is the board treasurer and chair of the investment committee.

His presence on campus also comes through the tangible act of guest lecturing in finance classes and mentoring students.

He points out that a professional role such as his was not even part of the job market in the early 1990s.

“What I had was good, core fundamental skills, the ability to connect with people and the ability to communicate. I attribute a lot of that to my time at Whitewater.” ❖

SABRINA WOLF

When she first stepped foot onto the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater campus, Sabrina Wolf was unsure of where her academic pursuits would take her.

A horizon-expanding exercise in learning about weather prompted a pivot from studying business, which was her initial plan.

This spring, Wolf is earning a B.S. in environmental science with an emphasis in geosciences from UW-Whitewater with a minor in general business and a certificate in geographic information systems.

After completing her first year, Wolf, a 2022 graduate of New Lisbon High School, went on a travel study trip that was a life-changing experience.

“I fell in love with it because we saw some incredible storms. I came back my sophomore year and switched my major. It was a pretty big milestone for me. It changed my career path. It got me passionate about the atmosphere, about nature and about different hazards.”

Wolf credits two specific UW-Whitewater faculty members with playing instrumental roles in helping her decide where she wants to head into the future. Megan Matthews, a senior lecturer of management, was one of her greatest inspirations.

Wolf said John Frye, associate professor of geography and geology, played the greatest role in helping her decide on her academic and professional goals.

“He’s the one that got me into storm chasing and was my mentor throughout undergraduate research projects. He taught me that I can chase my dreams and have a career in severe weather if I wanted it.”

While the classroom-based coursework was a foundational part of Wolf’s academic growth, the hands-on activities on campus — and beyond — were also pivotal.

Looking back on her four years as an undergraduate student, Wolf said the small, close-knit environment within UW-Whitewater was appealing to her.

“Coming from a small town, one thing I loved was that everyone knew everyone,” she said. “That sense of community, and knowing that someone is there for you, is very important to me.”

Wolf was involved in myriad clubs and organizations on campus, including DECA, the American Sign Language Club and the Chancellor’s Student Advisory Council. She also worked as a resident assistant for a year and a half.

As she looks to the future, Wolf said she aspires to work in conservation, water quality, environmental science or mapping. A GIS internship last summer at Mead & Hunt in West Allis further solidified her goals.

“I’m going to apply for anything that has to do with nature. I feel like college has set me up for enough skill sets to get my foot in the door somewhere and find something that I love.” ❖

CADE STOWE

As a student at Milton High School, Cade Stowe faced an uncertain future. Struggling with his mental health, he was not sure if he would graduate.

He ultimately did graduate and came to understand that he had a neurodivergent condition. As he was learning more about himself and his capabilities as a young adult, Stowe enrolled at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater at Rock County immediately after graduating high school in 2018.

“I wouldn’t be the man I am today without this place,” said Stowe, who is earning his B.A. in psychology with a minor in sociology from UW-Whitewater. “All of my professors, my advisors and my co-workers are now my friends. Going here really was the very best thing that ever could have happened to me.”

Stowe ultimately received a diagnosis of being on the autism spectrum disorder and was diagnosed with obsessive compulsive disorder and generalized anxiety disorder in 2020. As he continued his journey into adulthood, the environment on campus helped him gain a deeper belief in himself, set goals and strive toward academic growth, and get connected to the Center for Students with Disabilities.

Stowe explored several academic areas, including theater and music, before taking a respite from his studies at the height of the pandemic. When he returned to campus he decided to focus on psychology.

As he reflects on his time as an undergraduate student, Stowe said UW-Whitewater’s faculty had a profound impact on helping him understand what he can achieve through the power of perseverance.

Tracy Walters, a former UW-Whitewater professor who is now a faculty member at Marquette University, influenced Stowe when he was on the Rock County campus.

“The fact that I did research, analysis and wrote up a discussion paper was a way of showing me that I really can do this,” Stowe said of the work in Walters’ class. “It was a complete 180 for me and was a big milestone for me, personally.”

Stowe has worked as a peer tutor and mentor at the Warhawk Solution Center and has met with incoming first-year students through the university’s student orientation and registration, or SOAR, program. He also took part in intramural sports and worked as an assistant at the Lenox Library on the Rock County campus.

With a deeper understanding of his diagnosis and his true capabilities, Stowe said his goal is to give back and lend a helping hand whenever possible. He has been admitted into the graduate program in counselor education at UW-Whitewater with an emphasis in clinical and mental health.

“This has been a riveting journey for me. UW-Whitewater helped me understand my disability isn’t a problem — it’s a gift and a superpower.” ❖

REGINALD LAWRENCE

Reginald “Reggie” Lawrence II readily describes his journey to the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater as “very unorthodox,” but one that has played a foundational role throughout his three-and-a-half decades as an educator.

“Whitewater was extremely impactful, because there were so many people there who gave me an idea of what I could become.”

His arrival on campus in the fall of 1986 fostered a great awakening that helped him dream big and aim high. He credits several influential educators at the time for having a profoundly positive impact, including the late equity and inclusion advocate Roger Pulliam, Freda Briscoe, director of the university’s multicultural business programs, Elizabeth Ogunsola, who worked in academic support services, and Cleveland James, a student recruiter. As a student on campus, Lawrence took part in a number of different activities. In addition to pursuing athletics, he was involved in the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity and Black Student Union and its gospel choir.

Lawrence recalls participating in an interest survey that narrowed him down to four disparate career options: aerospace engineer, broadcaster, journalist and teacher. He settled on education, earning a B.S. in elementary education in 1990 and an M.S. in curriculum and instruction in 1992.

After graduating, he taught at several elementary and middle schools within Milwaukee Public Schools before transitioning over to administrative roles — first in Whitefish Bay for a year, and then back to MPS in various roles for more than two decades.

In 2019, he moved to Illinois for a new role after earning a Ed.D. in Educational Leadership from National Louis University in Milwaukee, and, in the process, becoming a licensed superintendent. For four years, Lawrence served as superintendent of Rock Island-Milan School District 41 in Rock Island before beginning his current role in Harvey School District 152 in 2024.

Lawrence has served on the board of Two Rivers YMCA, Junior Achievement of the Heartland, Big Brothers Big Sisters, United Way, Quad City Chamber and the Moline Foundation. He also is an 18-year veteran of the Wisconsin Army National Guard and a director on the board of the UW-Whitewater Foundation.

Lawrence is a member of the NAACP, National Alliance of Black School Educators and the American Association of School Administrators. An avid lover of jazz, he attends live concerts across the U.S.

Lawrence’s wife, Pandora Lawrence, is a retired school administrator. Their daughter, Kaela Lawrence, is a recent University of Maryland graduate.

As he describes his approach as an educator he notes the encouragement and support he received as a young adult.

“For me, my time at Whitewater was life-changing, because those experiences helped me believe what I could become.” ❖

WARHAWKS GIVE FUND

Warhawks Give: Writing the Next Chapter Together

Congratulations to our graduating Warhawks and to the families, friends, and mentors who have championed them every step of the way! As you cross the stage today, you aren't just receiving a degree; you are becoming a lifelong part of the Warhawk legacy.

Your journey is a vital part of Our Stories, Our Future, the most ambitious comprehensive campaign in UW-Whitewater's history. This campaign is dedicated to ensuring that every student has the opportunity to thrive, regardless of their financial circumstances.

Help us ensure that the next generation of students can experience the same pride you feel today. We invite you to make a commemorative gift of $20.26 or more in honor of this graduation year. Your contribution directly supports student success and keeps the Warhawk story moving forward.

Visit uww.edu/foundation/gradgift to make your impact.

THE MACE

A ceremonial staff called a mace is the official symbol of the university that is carried by a university marshal and signifies that ceremonies such as convocations, dedications and commencements have been officially sanctioned. The mace is a gift of the Class of 1969 in recognition of the academic growth of the university. Designed by Kurt J. Matzdorf of New York, the mace is fashioned entirely of sterling silver, enamels and amethyst and represents the School of Graduate Studies and four of the university's five colleges: Arts and Communication, Business and Economics, Education and Professional Studies, and Letters and Sciences.

The carrier of the ceremonial mace is the W.P. Roseman Excellence in Teaching Award recipient. The award, presented annually to a UW-Whitewater faculty member for outstanding teaching, was established in the memory of W.P. Roseman, who directed the campus elementary school from 1919 to 1942. An all-university committee determines the recipient, and the award carries a cash prize. ❖

ACADEMIC REGALIA

The cap and gown that faculty and students wear today have a tradition going back to the 12th and 13th centuries, when students and faculty were considered members of the clergy. The bachelor's gown has a closed front and long, pointed sleeves. The master's gown has an open front and extremely long, closed sleeves; the arms protrude through slits at the wrist and the ends of the sleeves are square, with an arc of a circle just above the bottom. The doctor's gown is an open-fronted garment with voluminous bell-shaped sleeves with three black or blue (for philosophy) velvet bars. Gowns are usually black.

The academic hood is edged in colored velvet, which indicates the field in which the degree was earned. The master's hood is three and one-half feet long, with the colors of the edging for degrees granted by UW-Whitewater. The lining of the hood is purple and white, the official academic colors.

Students wearing gold stoles with "Honor" printed on them are graduates of the University Honors Program. Gold cords designate students graduating with Latin honors (cum laude, magna cum laude and summa cum laude). Some students wear sashes reflecting their participation in student organizations. Graduates who studied abroad or who are affiliated with another country may wear satin sashes reflecting the colors of the country's flag. ❖

THE CHANCELLOR'S MEDALLION

The chancellor's medallion signifies the history and aspirations of the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater. Conferral upon the chancellor declares that person's institutional leadership role, investing the solemn rights, responsibilities and privileges attendant with that honor.

The medallion depicts the tower of Old Main, the building that served as the centerpiece of the campus from the university's founding in 1868 until it was lost to fire in 1970. The design of artist Linda Threadgill, an emeritus faculty member of the College of Arts and Communication, the medallion was cast and constructed in sterling silver and gold plate. Teresa Faris, professor of art and design, designed and constructed a chain of the same materials for the medallion in 2016.

A gift of the UW-Whitewater Foundation, the medallion was originally presented to Chancellor James R. Connor in 1987. ❖

UW-WHITewater ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

The Alumni Association is the principal organization through which UW-Whitewater graduates continue a relationship with their alma mater. This association seeks to enhance the reputation of its university while providing a variety of services and programming, including free professional development opportunities, Whitewater magazine, the Warhawk Pride alumni e-newsletter, alumni gatherings, alumni travel, Founders Day Awards, Homecoming, the alumni mentor program, class guest-speaking engagements and advisory boards.

Organized in 1952, the Alumni Association has a current membership of more than 110,000 from across the country and around the world. Each semester, hundreds of new graduates join the ranks of this important organization at no cost to them.

Support for the Alumni Association is provided in part by generous alumni donations to the UW-Whitewater Foundation. Those interested in learning more about the UW-Whitewater Alumni Association should visit uww.edu/alumni. ❖

Traditional tune from Scotland

Lyrics by Andrew Baldwin, Class of 2014

We sing to hon-or our great al-ma ma-ter, A place that we keep in our hearts day and night.

And our voi-ces soar just as those here be-fore pro-claim-ing our love for the pur-ple and white.

As we War-hawks fly to un-boun-ding heights we sing, "White-wa-ter White-wa-ter glo-ry to you!"

For we found a home and where ev-er we roam, we sing, "White-wa-ter White-wa-ter War-hawks are we!"
