Purpose

UW-Whitewater Foundation Mission: Drive long-term University support through strategic engagement and impactful giving.

UW-Whitewater's annual giving targeted appeals work to foster a vibrant culture of philanthropy by engaging alumni, faculty, staff, and friends in meaningful and purposeful giving. Through this focused approach, the Foundation supports the university's strategic priorities and ensures that every gift directly impacts the areas of greatest need including scholarships, academic programs, faculty support, and campus enhancements.

Targeted appeals enable the Foundation to allocate resources effectively, directing funds to areas aligning with institutional priorities and donor intent. This alignment ensures that every gift has a significant impact. By cultivating a culture where every gift matters, we lay the foundation for continued growth in philanthropic support, empowering the university to achieve its goals and serve its community for generations to come.

The UW-Whitewater University Relations team works with programs across campus to create targeted appeals annually.

With so many areas throughout campus that want to engage with their donors through a targeted appeal, the University Relations team needs to use its resources in the most impactful ways possible.

Submission and Approval Process

- Requester creates Targeted Fundraising Appeal application and reviews with Division leader (i.e. Provost, Vice Chancellor, Athletic Director, or Dean).

- University Relations contact is assigned to each approved appeal.
- University Relations contact requests follow-up details and moves forward with the process to create the appeal including kick off to all internal stakeholders.

Annual Targeted Appeal Goal

Starting in the Fall of 2025, University Relation's goal is to achieve two total comprehensive appeals each academic semester and 2-4 total focused appeals per semester. All costs associated with direct mail appeals, including credit card processing fees, printing, and postage, will be the responsibility of the requesting department or individual initiating the appeal. Ongoing support will also be provided for additional appeals with basic needs like donation forms, alumni lists, etc.

Success is dependent on getting a persuasive appeal message out to donors who are interested in the cause. Ongoing support from the requester throughout the process is key. This includes sending donor messages about the appeal from both University Relations and the sponsoring department.

Collateral Provided

Typical UR support for comprehensive targeted appeals:

- One printed mailer (cost paid by the requestor)
- One Warhawk Pride story
- Two targeted emails sent 1 and 3 weeks after the mailer
- Two rounds of social media support to alumni accounts 1-2 weeks and 4-5 weeks after mailer

Typical UR support for focused targeted appeals:

- Two targeted emails sent 2-3 weeks apart
- Two rounds of social media support to alumni accounts 1-2 weeks after each email

What happens if my Targeted Fundraising Appeal request doesn't get approved?

Just because your cause doesn't make the short list of approved projects doesn't mean you can't do your own fundraising.

Requesters of non-approved requests will be counseled to ensure they have the tools they need to move forward with their communications. Support such as donation form creation and alumni information lists will be provided along with information on Warhawks Give Appeal opportunities.

Contacts

Questions about the request process should be directed to your division leader. If you are not sure where to start, send a note to foundation@uww.edu and your request will be forwarded to the correct person.

UW-Whitewater Foundation, Inc.

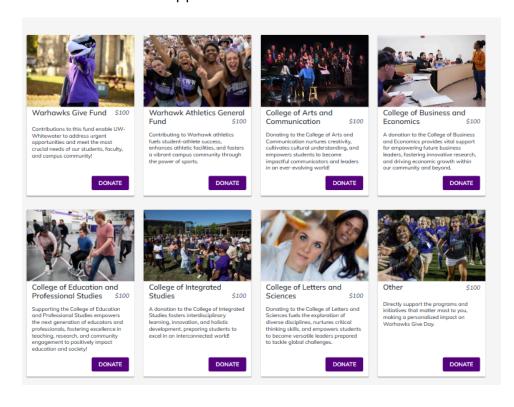

Warhawks Give Appeal

UW-Whitewater Foundation hosts a university specific giving appeal each spring called Warhawks Give. Historically it has been in April with a specific date chosen each year. As we grow this fundraising event each year there are opportunities for additional causes to be included.

Benefits of participating in the Warhawks Give Appeal:

- Groups have a landing spot to promote their cause in the campus-wide online giving page
- Successful groups do their own peer-to-peer fundraising with their potential donors to supplement the mass communications
- Piloted in 2024 with Athletics raising $31,000
- Focussing on an annual giving day becomes a reminder to donors to make gifts to their favorite programs annually

Contact Kennedy Heckel at heckelk@uww.edu for more information on participating in the Warhawks Give appeal.

Donation Forms

Online fundraising can be set up at the request of a faculty/staff member or organization advisors for any group with an established account at the UW-Whitewater Foundation with approval of the Foundation Chief Operating Officer in consultation with the Vice Chancellor for University Relations.

Our team has a variety of tools that can be tailored to suit your self-directed online fundraising efforts. We recommend that you set-up a consultation conversation with Brandon Kaddatz, our Gift Processor, before submitting your request. Email him at kaddatzbg17@uww.edu or call 262-472-7031. Please be prepared to share fund information and deadlines. Understanding your fundraising goals will help determine the best type of donation form for your needs. For example, the donation form can be embedded into a webpage or accessed through a unique URL or QR Code. A link to the donation form can be added to communications to encourage donations from your alumni and friends.

The Request for Online Fundraising form is used to gather the details needed to create the donation form. You will find it under Fundraising Tools on this page: www.uww.edu/foundation/employee-philanthropy-resources

Alumni and Donor Lists

Requests may be made by current faculty/staff members or organization advisors. Student organizations requesting information should have their advisor make the request. Information must be used for alumni activity-related purposes only. If the data is to be used for fundraising activities, the UW-Whitewater Foundation President must grant approval. The Alumni Information Request Form can be found here.

UWW Alumni Social Media Accounts

The UW-Whitewater Foundation and Alumni Association manage three social media accounts - Facebook, Instagram and LinkedIn. Appropriate messages posted on other UWW accounts can be shared to the alumni pages. Contact Cici Woods at woodsc@uww.edu for more information about social media options.
