

At Risk of Dropping Out: Making Sure Students Give College a Chance

Facilitator: Jim Winship, Department of Social Work

Tuesday, September 14
12:30-1:30 UC 259B

The majority of students who drop out of UW-Whitewater in their first year do so in the first six to eight weeks of school. They don't make it to Homecoming. In this workshop, faculty and Student Affairs staff will share common warning signs for students in peril of dropping out and strategies that can be used so that students do not quit before they really get started.

To reserve a place, please contact the LEARN Center:
