

CITING REFERENCES: APA Style (7th ed.)

WHITEWATER & ROCK COUNTY LIBRARIES UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN - WHITEWATER

This guide provides common examples of the APA (American Psychological Association) style for citing sources based on the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association: The Official Guide to APA Style (7th ed.), shelved in the Main and Reference collections (BF76.7 P83 2020). Examples include section numbers from the Manual. More examples may be found in the Manual, the APA Style Blog <http://www.apastyle.org/blog>, and the UWW How to Cite in APA Style online guide <https://libguides.uww.edu/apa> .

IN-TEXT CITATIONS

APA style requires that in-text citations refer to entries on References list at the end of the paper. Format rules for a bibliography or suggested reading list may be found in the Manual.

Include the author's surname and the date. The author's surname can be in the parentheses or in the text of the document. When quoting, always give page numbers (section 8.27-28). When paraphrasing, include page numbers for longer works (section 8.23). When page numbers are unavailable, refer to paragraphs or other parts (section 8.13).

Use the first few words of the References list entry with year.

Book example: (College Bound Seniors, 2008)

Website/magazine example: ("Quarter to Feature Smokies," 2009)

Multiple works by the same author in one year 8.12

Match letters following publication dates to References list

According to Derryberry and Reed (2005b)...

Personal interviews, emails, and other non-recoverable works 8.9

Cite personal communications in text only, NOT in References

(V. G. Nguyen, personal communication, September 28, 1998)

Secondary source citing primary source 8.6

Include both sources in text. Include only what was read (Nicholson) in References.

Allport's diary (as cited in Nicholson, 2003)

REFERENCES

On a new page after the text, center the bolded title References at the top of the page. List citations in alphabetical order. List works by the same author in chronological order and if several were published in the same year, append letters. Only include retrieval dates for online materials when the source material may change over time, such as in a wiki. Place title in author position when there is no byline. Use (n.d.) when there is no publication date.

Always double-space References
