Hold, Please! Local Request Debuts

Now that UW-Whitewater serves two libraries, we are offering a hold service. If you find a Whitewater or Rock County item you want in our catalog, Sign In, select Request and choose a Pickup Location (Whitewater or Rock County) and place your Local Request.

That’s it—you will receive an email as soon as the item is ready for pick up—and it will be held for 10 days.

New Article Databases

July, 2019 marked the full integration between Andersen (Whitewater) and Lenox (Rock County) Libraries. We now share a catalog as well as online resources.

Since Rock County subscribed to some databases that Whitewater did not, we’ve added several of these products to our online repertoire. We now have JSTOR Arts & Sciences V & VI, adding thousands more scholarly articles in many disciplines.

We also have many new Gale article databases which came as a package with Opposing Viewpoints in Context, a UW Rock County subscription that offers contextual information and opinions on hundreds of today's hottest social issues.

New Library Web Site Launch

The next time you visit the Library web site, you’ll notice a whole new look. The goal of the new design is to make it easier to find what you need.

Please send us your feedback as we are eager to improve your user experience. You will also want to note the new URL: http://www.uww.edu/library/

This fall we are making another significant change to our online presence. The Library’s ejournals and databases will now require logins to the Library’s EZproxy even when you are on campus. This means that if you are accustomed to using Google Scholar, you will no longer automatically get access to the Library’s content when on a wired campus computer. You will need to login to authenticate using your UW-W netID and password.

If you start your search at the Library web site, you will be prompted to login as needed.

When searching, don’t despair—we very likely have what you need—but you may have to login with your netID and password for access.

Present Your Research—Lightning Fast

Would you like to share your research with students, faculty and staff in an informal, fast-paced format? Consider giving a five-minute Lightning Talk. The first round of Lightning Talks will take place on Thursday, October 10 at 3:30 pm.

Please contact Reference Librarian Martha Stephen-son (x4366) for more information.

Lightning Talks are sponsored by the Library and the Office of Research & Sponsored Programs.
